

Vélizy-Villacoublay, 20 July 2020
17:40

Press release

Eiffage Métal names Thierry Wolkiewicz as CEO France

Thierry Wolkiewicz, formerly CEO of Vallourec Bearing Tubes, has joined Eiffage Métal as CEO France, reporting directly to Guillaume Sauvé, Chairman of Eiffage Génie Civil and Eiffage Métal.

A graduate of the École Polytechnique and the École des Mines de Paris, Thierry Wolkiewicz began his career with ExxonMobil in 1998, where he held a number of managerial roles in the areas of strategic planning, logistics and trading. In 2004, he joined the Vallourec Group, where he performed operational management and project coordination roles in Brazil, before taking charge of strategy for the Group's casing and tubing division. He subsequently took responsibility for commercial management in the drilling products division and the development of organisations in North America and France.

His industrial-sector background and multidisciplinary experience will be considerable assets in developing Eiffage Métal's activity in France.

About Eiffage Métal

Eiffage Métal is the Eiffage group's brand dedicated to turnkey metallic construction. Its teams design and build construction shells and façades, and engineering structures. Eiffage Métal is an industry leader, particularly in the offshore wind sector, specialised in complex, multi-technical projects. With a strong European and international presence and nine production plants, Eiffage Métal employs more than 2,300 people.

Eiffage press contact

Sophie Mairé
sophie.maire@eiffage.com
Tel: +33 1 71 59 10 62